

LOVE

when you respect something that no one else does
you try to justify it

when you love something
that no one else does
you'd never think of it

justification

would be a disgrace

when I bathe in your warm waters and bask in your light
there's no argument

I soak it up